

Visit to REM Company

GZDBK organizes numerous forums, tours, and exchanges of good business practices among companies, entrepreneurs, and other work organizations. The executive committees of individual sections at the regional chamber develop their annual work programs, in which each section also focuses on exchanging good business practices through company visits. This time, the Informatics Section (SI) organized a visit to REM, d.o.o., which also included the section's meeting.

REM is one of the leading providers of modular construction in Slovenia and an important partner in the European market. They specialize in comprehensive solutions—from design and engineering to the production and assembly of more complex modular structures.

With their flexibility, speed of execution, and sustainable approach, they have been successfully implementing even the most demanding projects since 2001. On more than 22,000 m² of production and development areas, approximately 200 employees develop and produce advanced modular solutions, generating over 40 million euros in annual revenue. They place their structures in various environments across Europe and beyond, thereby strengthening their recognition, competitiveness, and innovation on international markets.

Host Jure Rajh, the new president of the Informatics Section, and Andrej Selan, head of production, guided the participants on a tour of the company's production processes. Jure Rajh then introduced the company to us. The attendees learned about their digital practices, maintenance, and provision of digitalization systems and cybersecurity, which GZDBK also promotes through the SRC-EDIH 2.0 project.

During the visit to REM, we held the annual meeting of the Informatics Section. The section's activities in 2025 were presented to the members by the previous president, Andrej Železnik from TEM Čatež, and we thanked him for his past work and contribution to the section's development. The section's work program for 2026 was presented by the new president, Jure Rajh from REM.

The visit concluded with an exchange of opinions, insights, and experiences over refreshments.

We invite you to view the photo highlights from this meeting.

Membership in the Informatics Section (SI) is free for all employees of companies that are members of GZDBK.
