About the event

The opening part of this year's, already 19th, Human Resources Management Day will be marked by a lecture from the distinguished psychiatrist and communications expert PhD. Željko Čurić. In an in-depth 90-minute lecture entitled "Psychology of AI", he will shed light on the impact of artificial intelligence on our thinking, decision-making, work and interpersonal relations, as well as the challenges that its increasingly intensive use brings to individuals and organisations.

Following the networking break and exchange of experience, we will present the SRC-EDIH 2.0 project, its key objectives, and the opportunities it offers companies in digital transformation, the adoption of advanced technologies, and strengthening the digital competences of their employees.
